

Maidier Maraña

maider.montevideando@gmail.com

m.marana@baketik.org

Maidier Maraña (Spain, 1981) is the Director of the Baketik Foundation, a civil society organisation on conflict resolution and human rights (www.baketik.org). As an independent consultant (Montevideando consulting), she is an advisor on culture and human rights on public policies for international organisations, such as UNESCO and the European Commission, local governments and associations. She worked for UNESCO Headquarters (World Heritage Centre) and UNESCO Montevideo Office, as a researcher at the University of the Basque Country and at civil society, in entities such as the UNESCO Center of the Basque Country.

Master of Research in Cultural Law, her thematic focus are cultural rights, public policies on memory and culture, gender equality and social participation. Some publications: Culture and Development. Evolution and perspectives (2010), Heritage and Human Rights (2015) or Climate change: Threat to Human Rights (2020). She is currently a member of the Board of Trustees of the Interarts Foundation and participates in ICOMOS Spain, among other volunteer work.